Description

The Range Rover was the first step towards the SUV in 1970, and was the first all-terrain vehicle outside the United States to combine luxury and capability with a powerful V8 engine. Initially, only two-door models were built, followed by the four-door from 1980. The car has true off-road DNA, with ladder frame and two rigid axles. This model was originally delivered to Italy in 1976.
